Science in the Service of Autism

Autistica receives partner status with the National Institute of Health Research – the research arm of the NHS.

Autistica has received partner status with the National Institute of Health Research, for our funded pilot grants. This will allow the researchers of these grants access to other forms of research support from the NHS that would not otherwise be available.

In order to gain inclusion on the NIHR, Autistica has met their eligibility criteria, which includes being of clear value to the NHS. This status is an endorsement of Autistica's research and peer review processes
