

Supporting Children with ASD in Mainstream Education

If you are interested in autism & transition to secondary school please complete our online questionnaire. Whether you have an ASD yourself, whether you have a family member with autism or whether you are a professional—we would like to hear your views & experiences.

For a child with ASD, the move from primary to secondary school can be a very difficult change.

Our aim is to help parents and professionals provide appropriate support during the transition.

We have been given a new research grant from the Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity®. We are developing support packages to help to make the process easier.

We want to hear from anyone who is interested in this topic across the UK & Ireland via our questionnaire.

By completing our online questionnaire you will be helping us inform schools and government on supporting children with ASD in mainstream education.

PARTICIPATE!

Our online questionnaire will take about 15 mins to complete:

www.ich.ucl.ac.uk/gosh/autism_and_education

If you would like more information about the study contact us at:
interaction@ich.ucl.ac.uk or on: 020 7905 2169